MORE SOUTHERN BRUTALITY.—Surgeon [illegible] of the [illegible] N. Y. Volunteers, said that [illegible] had retreated to the [illegible] after the [illegible] movements there was a [illegible] were [illegible] the number [illegible] thirty, [illegible]. He took off his coat and vest and hung them on a branch [illegible] a number, [illegible] the wounds [illegible]. He remembers one [illegible] particularly, a young fellow [illegible] which he placed [illegible] and as the man seemed in good condition he showed him how in case the wound bled he could turn it himself, at the same time leaving him a little brandy in a cup. He placed him with his back against a tree. [illegible] the bottle and the necessity of helping other wounded took him away from that point, but [illegible] after he returned to the tree to get his coat and see after those cases, when he discovered to his horror, that they had all been bayoneted! The young man against the tree had a huge bayonet wound in his breast. He states, too, that while he and his assistants were helping another company of wounded—though they waved their scarfs and called out that these were wounded men—a body of musketeers poured in their fire upon them twice!

NEW ORLEANS BANKRUPT.—At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen, on the 10th of June, the Chairman of the Finance Committee stated to the Board that the "city was dead broke and that he could not see financial daylight." Another Alderman, a heavy holder of real estate, resigned his seat, and the Finance Committee reported a resolution to suspend all new public works, in order so far to relieve the poverty of the city. The Delta, admitting and sadly remarking on the bankruptcy of New Orleans, says in a tone of great anxiety that "a large number of tax-payers are utterly destitute of the means necessary to pay taxes on their small property, and that unless long indulged, they must allow their homesteads to pass under the hammer of the sheriff." The Delta thinks this beggardly condition of the city, "when little over four months of the year have passed," is chiefly owing to its heavy outlays for military movements for Secession. But New Orleans was very wealthy, and these expenses could not have swamped it so wretchedly. The cause of her pauperism is the bare act of secession itself—a step which changed and destroyed her trade, and that trade and that credit cannot be restored till the Union flag shall wave again over her Custom House.

SENATOR LATHAM, of California, in a speech in the Senate said: "In common with several gentlemen on this floor, he condemned every act of the South in opposition to the Government, and the pen of history would never record so unjustifiable and unwarrantable a revolt. He contended that if the South had remained in the Union it would have held the power as much as ever it did, except the executive sanction. It had always had the power of the Government for two-thirds of the time. He then contended the South had no cause of revolt, but he had become satisfied that it was the settled purpose of the South to seize the occasion of Lincoln's election to precipitate the rebellion. He asserted, further, that it was a scheme fostered by leading politicians of the South for a quarter of a century to break up the Government and establish a government of their own, the corner stone of which is slavery. He referred to the declarations of Mr. Yancey, as an evidence that no compromise would be accepted, but that the moment had arrived to strike for independence. The doctrine of secession was but the shadow of an excuse. He did not believe sensible men at the South believed in a doctrine so absurd.

WHO ARE THE PEACE PARTY?—Who are the ones making all this ado about compromise during rebellion? Where do they come from and what have they been doing? We will let an Iowa journal answer:—

"They are the same men who during last summer and fall proclaimed the wrongs of the seceding States and declared they ought to secede unless they could procure a change in the Federal Constitution in their behalf. They are the same men who insisted that secession would not lead to war, and urged secession as a means of peace. They are the same men who palliated the crimes of the thieves who preyed upon the treasury at Washington, and of the robbers who seized on mints, forts, arsenals and other public property, calling these acts indiscretions, and hoping nothing would be done to provoke or excite the perpetrators. They are the same who rent their lungs with cries of non-coercion; the same whose policy and purposes, keeping time to the treachery of Buchanan's Administration, raised, strengthened and consolidated a great rebel army at the capital.

PATTERSON'S TREASON.—The Harrisburgh (Pa.) Telegraph of the 4th of July, says:—

While we feel proud in publishing the following private dispatch from the gallant Captain of the Lochiel Greys, the people of Pennsylvania will read its confirmation of the treason or imbecility of Patterson with shame and indignation. The Lochiel Greys have maintained the honor of the State capital and their own reputation as patriots and soldiers, while Gen. Patterson has lowered the dignity of the State of his adoption and the country that reposed confidence in his valor and devotion.

BALTIMORE, July 21.

MR. GEORGE BERGNER:—The Lochiel Greys [illegible], received peremptory orders from Gen. Patterson at Harper's Ferry to proceed at once to Harrisburgh by Railroad. They have reluctantly obeyed, after having tendered unanimously to the Department their services so long as the Government may need them.

HARRY McCORMICK, Captain.

SOUTHERN SLAVERY.—In an incidental discussion of the slavery question in the United States Senate on Thursday, involving the issue of reducing this war to a war for the suppression of slavery, the sense of the Senate was tested on a proposition of Mr. Sherman, to wit:—"That the purposes of our military establishments are to preserve the Union, defend property and maintain the Constitution and authority of the Union," which was approved by yeas 33, nays 4. These four nays were from Kentucky and Missouri. The Senators casting them are no doubt in favor of an unconditional surrender of our Government to Jeff. Davis. They are evidently in the wrong Congress.—N. Y. Herald.

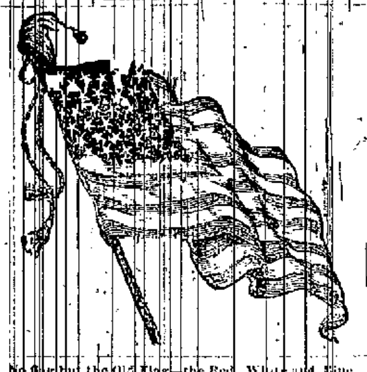
OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.



No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save.

TUESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 27, 1861.

The News.

The dispatch published yesterday was very unsatisfactory. It did not contain an item of great importance, save the movement of the rebel army at and near Fairfax. From the previous news we were led to believe that important events were about to occur at Bird's Point, perhaps at Cairo, or that the rebels would advance into Missouri. We look for stirring news from that quarter.

The order of Gen. Scott to prevent the transmission of telegraphic accounts of army movements, was issued sometime since, and is probably the reason for our last meagre dispatch.

The Adjournment of Congress.

The St. Louis correspondent of the Sacramento Union, under date of August 6, writes —"Both Houses of Congress, last week, passed a resolution to adjourn sine die, at 12 o'clock to-day, and it is presumed, therefore, that the extra session is at an end. All the war bills, including the Loan Bill, the Volunteer Bill, the bill to increase the regular army, the bill to increase the enlistment in the navy, the bill to augment the military establishments, the bill taxing real estate and incomes, the bill modifying the tariff, the Confiscation Bill, and a number of others of similar character, have been passed and will go into effect at once.

In respect to the extraordinary state of affairs that called for its assembling, and the important nature of the measures it has adopted to meet the emergency, the present extra session is the most interesting session of the American Congress ever held. Its acts are the basis on which the Government is to conduct the war. Those acts are the measures that are to bear the nation through the severest and most terrible ordeal of its history. In the main, they appear to be wise and judicious. Some of them, especially those of a military and financial character, are vast and even stupendous in their magnitude; and will tax the nation's resources of men and money as they were never taxed before. But the struggle we are in is a vast and stupendous one, and the apparent extravagance of expenditure must be pardoned to the terrible exigency that makes it necessary."

Resolutions of the Oregon Conference. —We briefly referred to them last week. They are alike religious and patriotic—such as every true Union man must approve. They embrace the declarations that the people in the National Constitution designed the Union to be perfect and permanent; that our astonishing prosperity under it shows its importance to our race, and its attempted overthrow must excite the horror and alarm of every patriot, philanthropist, and Christian; that our dearest earthly interests are involved in its preservation; that in the fearful struggle for this purpose there is no neutral ground to be occupied by ministers or people; that inaction is contrary to the spirit of the Bible, to the Declaration of Independence, to the heroic example of our Revolutionary Fathers, is subversive of National order, National peace, and National existence; that no treasure is too costly, no sacrifice too dear, no time too long, to put down rebellion and sustain the Union; that confidence may be placed in the present Government to put down rebellion, and that it should be sustained; and that trust is placed in God that our Republic may emerge from the present ordeal, stronger and purer than ever before, to occupy a loftier position among the nations of the earth.

These patriotic and Christian sentiments were adopted by the Conference by an unanimous vote of all the members. These resolutions will hereafter be referred to as a proud evidence of the living patriotism of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Oregon.

Prospecting—Grand Round Valley.

Walla Walla, August 20th, 1861.

Editor Oregonian:

I have been up Snake River within the last two or three months, some 350 miles, on a prospecting tour, and to meet the emigrants: but we found neither emigrants or gold. I went out with A. B. Roberts of this place. We started too soon. We went to the Salmon Falls, on Snake River; but had to turn back on account of Mr. Watson's health—one of our company. He is from Yamhill County. We were at or near Salmon Falls on the 2d of July. We met on Bowler River, two wagons from Salt Lake; this party said that the Oregon emigration was a long distance behind, and that the emigrants to California were passing through Salt Lake.

I saw no place on the trip that was any way enticing, but the Grand Round Valley, and that is certainly the most desirable place for settlers in Oregon. This Valley is from twenty-five to thirty miles in length, and averages eighteen in width—all good land. No layers of gravel are found in this Valley; and it is well timbered and watered. Some will say that it has not been purchased from the Indians; but I say to all that it has, and has been for some time. Again, some will say, where is your market? Well, we all know in a very short time there will be military posts established for both emigrants and settlers, and these posts will require supplies from some source, and this Valley is the nearest to all of that country which will require supplies.

This Valley is large enough for over 1200 farms, all good ones—well timbered and watered. No better country is nearer the Nez Perces mines than this Valley; and companies are prospecting on all sides of it. Stock will live well in it in winter time. In the summer the grass is better than in any place I ever saw.

The Grand Round Valley is bound to be settled the coming season; and those thorough farmers who want good claims, will do well to come up to Walla Walla, and I will go over with them to the Valley, and examine it with them. I have been all over it; but I will go again if I can get settlers to go in there. I want a claim there, and I am going to have one, for it is prettiest country I ever saw. Its locality is about forty miles South-east of Walla Walla, but some further by way of the road. I remain yours.

James Veazey.

Indian Hostilities in the South.

Jackson County, Ogn., Aug. 19th, 1861.

Editor of the Oregonian:

You are, and the public is generally informed of the murder of Messrs. Joseph Bailey and Evans by the Modock Indians while on their way to Washoe with a drove of cattle,—some six or eight hundred head. There were sixteen men in the company, probably well armed, and they were defeated after a fierce engagement.

By later news we are informed that a company of 20 soldiers were sent out from Fort Crook, in pursuit of the Indians, and but one of the 20 escaped to tell of the sad fate of the remainder. [This report has been contradicted.] It is evident from all we can learn, though all cannot be relied on, that the Indians about Goose Lake and Pitt River are in force, very numerous, well armed with guns, pistols, arrows, &c., and elated with victory; but as it would not do to delay for a stronger force to assemble, as emigrants coming the old emigrant trail to Oregon, by the Klamath lakes, might already be in the enemies country, a company of volunteers, under the command of Captain Lindsay Applegate, on the 10th ult., organized in Rogue River Valley, and started on the old emigrant trail to protect the emigrants into this valley. The company numbered but forty-two men, but they are well armed,—good shots and very cautious,—most of them have seen service in most or all of the wars with the devilish Indians of this section. To do the company justice, the men are picked for this dangerous service; and I am confident, if the Indians attack them where they have a chance to fight, there will be many a dusky warrior bite the dust. The company however will be compelled to pass through ravines and other places where the skulking foe may take all advantage. About 30 Rogue River Indians came into Rogue River Valley about two weeks since and requested the settlers to leave the old reserve on Evans creek. The settlers talk of making them glad to stay away. The inquiry is why are the Indians not kept on the Grand Ronde reserve but allowed to return and disturb the settlements?

Yours in haste,

J.

Won't Do.—If we were asked to name a paper that was fit for nothing at all, we should say Portland Advertiser. It is one of the most feeble secession papers on this or any other coast. It is in favor of preserving the Union, that is, what is left of it after Jeff. Davis and his tribe have taken all they want. —Yreka Journal.

This is just so—with this addition—that Joe Lane and Secession shall rule Oregon.

Oregon Home Guard.

Washington Co., Oregon, Aug. 26, '61.

Editor Oregonian:

You will please state through your columns that there will be a meeting at the place known as the "[illegible] Bridge" on September 7th, 1861, for the purpose of organizing a Union Military Home Guard. Union men turn out, shoulder [illegible] me on!

Yours, [illegible] Wm. Patton.

This movement is in entire harmony with our best interests, and we should be glad to [illegible] counties.

"The Chivalry [illegible]."—Under this caption, the Albany [illegible] Journal says:

"Some years ago [illegible] spent a winter in New Orleans. Conversing one day with a friend—a [illegible] born and bred at the South—a slaveholder too, but one who hated slavery with all his [illegible]—we made a remark complimentary of the [illegible] character of the Southern people. He [illegible]: 'You do not know these Southerners. You give them credit for good [illegible]; you commend them for their chivalric [illegible]. Do you know they are brutes [illegible]—the best of them? They [illegible], do they not,—these fine gentry, [illegible] you stroke the hair downward; but [illegible] and the other way, and see how soon they will spring at you with tooth and claw! You have met some of these gentlemen [illegible]; you were pleased with [illegible]: [illegible] believe me [illegible] of them wouldn't hesitate a moment to cut my throat if he knew I entertained such opinions about slavery as I now express. And yet these men are my neighbors, and think they are my friends.'

"Now mark my prediction," continued our friend, "[illegible] the North will make up its mind that [illegible] been imposed upon and bullied by the South, and will assert its independence. Then you will see what Southern 'breeding,' and Southern 'honor' and Southern 'chivalry' are! Then you will see the fine [illegible] gentlemen in the deformity to which slavery has reduced them. God grant that it may not happen in our day; for when the South finds that it can no longer rule, you will see such a spectacle of brutality and [illegible]—such an exhibition of ruffianism, [illegible] and lawlessness, as shall make all Christendom turn pale. Then you will see the Southern character laid bare; will see how essentially the canker of slavery has eaten out all [illegible] and better attributes of manhood. Then you will see a people endowed with all the [illegible]ness, without the magnanimity of the savage."

A Massachusetts [illegible] the Enemy's Lines.—Sergeant [illegible], of Company [illegible], Massachusetts [illegible], was shut in by the advance of the enemy's cavalry, and was compelled to [illegible] chapparel until he could crawl away through the woods. In coming down the road he fell in company with two Alabama "[illegible] hands," who gave an intelligent account of the affairs in the Confederate army. They were connected with the Quartermaster's Department, and were familiar with the amount of rations delivered, their quality, &c. They state that on Saturday rations were given out at Manassas for 91,000 men. They had corn meal, pickled pork, smoked shoulders, and hard bread in abundance, but little flour. The colored men say that at 3 o'clock of Sunday forty large wagons heavily loaded with dead and wounded passed back to Manassas, while there were [illegible] about in every direction heaps of the dead and dying. They think the confederate loss much heavier than ours, and say that many of their best men are lost. [illegible] say, during the first engagement, General Beauregard had a table shot away from him, upon which he was eating his dinner, and on Sunday his horse was killed under him. The opinion of the secession force was, that if they were driven back from Manassas, or General Beauregard killed, their game was up. The men further state that there are [illegible] in Alabama where there are not one hundred men left by the drafting, and that many of the regiments are made up in a great measure of mere boys. They say the slaves in the South understand what the war is for, and are deeply interested in the result. There are one or two negro regiments in the service, and a great many are taken along in battle to load the guns of the infantry, and cover them from a fire if it should be too heavy. Most of them are on the lookout for opportunities to escape, and whenever a charge was made on our lines, numbers of [illegible] would run towards our troops and join our regiments. This was the plan of these two, and they were jubilant [illegible] their escape.

The Cartridge Manufactory in Springfield, Ill., employs [illegible] 150 hands; many of them being mere boys and girls.

Drunken Indians.—Quite a number of intoxicated [illegible] have [illegible] our side walks of late. Who [illegible] is mean enough to sell whisky to them? [illegible] be on the look out.

Repairing the Cisterns.—Chief Engineer Webber has a number of workmen engaged in repairing cisterns, which are out of order.

They are having preaching at Astoria. The Court House doors have been thrown open, where there is plenty of room for expanded crinoline. We learn this important fact from the Oregon Argus.

Gen. Lane is very unlucky. A letter from a secessionist of New Hampshire to the General, asking for an office in the Secession army, fell into the hands of Jim Lane of Kansas, who sent it to the Governor of New Hampshire, to enable him to look up the traitor. Lane should invariably have such letters directed to the care of Gov. Curry.

The steamer Cortes arrived at San Francisco the 19th inst. The dispatch sent to the Sacramento Union, to the effect that huge numbers of miners are leaving the Nez Perces mines on account of Indian troubles, is incorrect.

Hon. J. W. Nesmith and Hon. O. P. Oliphant left New York in the steamer on the 1st for Aspinwall.

On the 1st of August, there was an exciting debate in the Senate between Senators Breckenridge and Baker. Breckenridge undertook to demonstrate that the President "was assuming powers not expressly nor impliedly given him by the Constitution and the laws;" or rather, made a speech for the benefit of his rebel associates of the Confederate States. Senator Baker undertook to refute his arguments and disprove his statements, and was most successful, overwhelming Breckenridge, and showing his disunion proclivities and his sympathy with the traitors of the South.

It appears by an examination of the two Volunteer bills that the President has power to call one million men into the field. It is not thought, however, that more than 500,000 men will be accepted.

A dispatch from San Francisco says that the regiment for the plains is full, with the exception of one company.

A surgeon in the rebel army has written home to Winchester, Virginia, that the loss of the rebels at Bull's Run is not less than six thousand killed and wounded.

The London Times' correspondent thus writes from Louisiana:

"This year the prospects of sugar is dreary enough, at least while the civil war lasts, and my host, with a certainty of 6,500 hhds. upon his various plantations, has none of a market. In this respect cotton has the advantage of keeping longer than sugar. At last year's prices, and with the United States protective tariff of 20 per cent, to shield him from foreign competition, his crop would have yielded him over £100,000! But all the sweet teeth of the Confederate States Army can hardly 'make a hole' in the 450,000 hhds. which this year is expected to yield in Louisiana and Texas. Under the new tariff of the seceding States, the loss of protection to Louisiana alone may be stated, within bounds, at $8,000,000 per annum—which is making the planters pay pretty dear for the secession whistle."

Commercial and Financial.

The North West thus represents the present and increasing importance of the trade of San Juan." "The Island of San Juan, which, since the Boundary demonstration of '58, has been treated as a neutral station so far as the collection of duties is concerned, has a commercial importance very much larger than most people suppose. Last week the H. B. Co's steamer Otter, for Victoria, carried away 500 head of sheep, valued at $2,500; and we are told that the exported sheep alone amounts to upwards of $6,000 per month. This branch of trade cannot last long however, unless controlled by Americans, as the H. B. Co. are taking steps to withdraw their sheep raising business from that Island, and place it entirely within their own waters. Others will take their place, and the production of wool and mutton will be a general trade among many American settlers now settled there with their families. Much of the Island is peculiarly adapted to sheep raising, and no better mutton is to be had on the continent. The settlers have many fine farms under a high state of cultivation, and are building for themselves permanent homes. Several large fisheries are [illegible] ing a lucrative business in curing salmon, and we believe from all reports that the community on San Juan will ultimately thrive and prosper better than if the gold placer there were worked. The settlement of the Boundary question, and the survey of the lands by our Government, so that the settlers can purchase titles, will inaugurate a very happy state of affairs there.

Legal Notice.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Multnomah County. A. M. A. Blanchet, Complainant, vs. Oswald Travaillot, Defendant. In Chancery.

To OSWALD TRAVAILLOT, Defendant: You are hereby notified that A. M. A. Blanchet has this day filed in my office his bill of complaint and commenced a suit against you, in which he claims that on the tenth day of June A. D. eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, you made and delivered to him a certain promissory note for the sum of six hundred dollars, payable [illegible] months after date, with interest at the rate of two per cent. per month; and at the same time made, acknowledged and delivered a certain mortgage deed upon lots numbered three and four in block number three in Couch's claim, an addition to the City of Portland, in the county aforesaid, as security for the payment of said note; and complainant prays for a decree of foreclosure and for the sale of the said mortgaged premises to pay the amount due upon said mortgage, to-wit: The sum of six hundred dollars and interest as aforesaid from the twentieth of September, A. D. eighteen hundred and fifty-nine, and for a judgment against you for any balance which may remain unpaid after the application of the proceeds of the sale of said property for the payment of said debt; and you are further notified that unless you appear in the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah on the second Monday of November A. D. 1861, and then and there answer the said bill of complaint, the same will be taken as confessed, and the prayer thereof will be granted by the Court.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of this Court this 12th day of August, A. D. 1861.

This Soap recommends itself for the following reasons: It is not only the best soap in use for the wash tub and the toilet, but it is far the cheapest, washing is performed with half the labor required by other soaps. It removes all [illegible] tar and grease from woolen and cotton goods; in a word, is the great desideratum of the age.

☞ Put up in five and ten pound cans. Each can warranted to make sixty and one hundred and twenty pounds respectively.
